Paris is to have a new society, to be called the "Societe de Autopsie Mutuelle." the members of which are by minual agreement, and by properly executed will and testament to leave their bodies after death at the disposal of the society, for dissection, with the view of promoting pathological and physiological science. The society is to have power to dispose of the body as deemed proper, but the skull, with its contents, will be turned over to the Anthropological society, that it may verify, if possible, any particular quality, talent or propensity for which the testator may have been noted during life.

The lettle daughter of a very wealth.

-The little daughter of a very wealthy The little daughter of a very wealthy New Yorker happened not long ago to hear her small schoolmates congratulating themselves and one another upon the regularity with which their fathers said grace at the table. Her father did not say grace, and oppressed by a sanse of inferiority, the little one wept that evening and be-sought him to do it. He said he thought it was time he began, and asked a blessing with all proper feeling at breakfast next morning. A younger elster of the little homilist, a young is y still in the nursery, who had not heard the prevous conversation, looked up surprised. Then her face cleared. "I know what you dogs 'at for, papa," said rhe; "it's 'taute you'se getting poor."

—Anropos of the last expedition to the papa," said the; "it's 'tause you'se getting poor."

—Apropos of the last expedition to the Pole it is reported that while the aurone borealis gave out, the moon, like an old toper, was always full. If this be true, here is an astronomical aut for some one to crack. Perhaps it might be made useful in demoralizing the old theories as to the earth's rotundity. Two or three years since a paper called the Zetifre was published in London entirely for the purpose of proving, that the earth is flat. An enthusiast of mundane flatness devoted all his time, energies and money to this end. Should be and the paper be still alive the persevering fulness of the moon at the North Pole is recommended to him as a possible aid in establishing his doctrine.

—The rich discoveries of gold and silver to young may possibly call out some of the opecting spirit which now looks to the Black Hills for its latest field for action. An old California forty-niner, sluicing out the limbs of Agamemnon or turning the Alpheus in order to bring down a "good head of water in order to hydraulio off buried Troy, would be a startling yet profitable innovation." He may yet pan out the cremated remains of Crossus and run Hodner himself through a rocker. — John Staub was engaged to Mary Emma Davis, in New Orleans. His business required his absence from the city for three months and he delegated to his intimate friend, William Wibley, the duty of attending on Miss Davis during that time. The understanding was that the substitute should take the girl to entertainments and to church, and to have general supervision of her, but he went further than that by falling in love with her. And she tell in low with him. Staub returned, learned what had come to pass and killed Wibley with a pistol shot.

Among the young wonen at the high school in Portland, Me., was a poor lass who worked in a boarding-house. She rose at 30 clock every morning, get breakfast, put the kitchen in order, and then went to school; returning in the afterneon, she cleared the lunch table, cooked supper and did other housework. Last week she feel sick of a fever and was taken to a hospital, where the matron ascertained that she wore only one petticoat under her thin calleo gown. She has been sent to Anhurn, N. —At a recent seance in London, after an overture with banjo, bell and tambourine, three apritis appeared upon the scene and announced themselves as the Apostle Paul. Tom Psine and a little Indian girl. There were detectives in the audience, and they hugged the three ghosts like beaps until the lights were turned on. The apostle was then discovered to be an imposter in a white shirt. There is one thing of which spiritualists lose sight. What consolution can a weary world derive from contemplating a hereafter in which the pauses are filled with tambouringiangles, and Paul who was the apostle of common source as well as of Christianity, has nothing better to do than go skylarking with Tom Paine and little Indian girls?
